An air strike Tuesday against Iraq was a case of doing what had to be done, said area residents backing the use of the U.S. military in the Middle East as they watched the first broadcast news reports of the bombings.

"It's unbelievable," said Wesley Mida, a World War II veteran from Ypsilanti. "You just don't know what's going to happen now."

Seconds later, Mida, 65, said, "We didn't stop Hitler in the beginning, either, and he went a long way. I think applying force now is good."

Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, voted against the Solarz-Michel resolution, named for Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-New York, and Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., the House minority leader.

The resolution, which passed the house 250-183, authorized President George Bush to use force to eject Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's troops from Kuwait.

Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, voted for the measure.

Michigan Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle, both Democrats, voted against the use-of-force resolution sponsored in the Senate by Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas. Dole's resolution, which passed 52-47, was identical to the Solarz-Michel resolution.

Both the House and Senate voted on Saturday.

"Clearly, Kuwait's independence and the restoration of its ruling family are not worth the loss of American lives, let alone the enormous expense of our nation's wealth," Ford said in a statement before the vote.

All of Michigan's seven Republican representatives voted for the Solarz-Michel resolution. Among Michigan's 11 House Democrats, 10 voted against the resolution, while Rep. John Dingell of Dearborn Reaction to the Gulf war and President Bush's speech was mostly skeptical from Democratic officials.

"I hope the experts who said this would be quick, fast and surgical are right," said U.S. Congressman William Ford, D-Taylor. "It's OK with me if George Bush becomes a hero and gets this thing over with as soon as possible, and gets us the hell out of there.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, had written the Michigan congressional delegation, asking them to vote to continue to use economic sanctions against Iraq.

"Now that we're doing it, hope it works," Pollack said. "I hope we take out a maximum level of the Iraq military, and a minimum number of civilians. But it's far too soon to tell if the President has taken the right course of action.'

Like Ford, Pollack wasn't convinced a military strike was the right course of action.

"The President's speech sounded like a man who had a lot of convincing to do to his own country," Pollack said. State Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti Twp., didn't have an opinion, but did echo the sentiments of Washtenaw County Vietnam veterans.

"Let's give our full support to the troops, and put aside whether it's right or wrong," Profit said. "That's a decision we have to rely on the Congress and President to make."

Bush told a national television audience Tuesday that economic sanctions would not work against Saddam Hussein.

But the results of military action might not work either, Pollack said.

"I've always felt Saddam Hussein is like fleas on a dog, Pollack said. "You kill one, and there's an endless number of others. I'm worried about what winning will look like. We might end up with Iraq and Iran united in a fundamentalist government."

Like Profit, U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle did not comment directly on whether the military action was right or wrong, but did vote against the resolution Saturday to use force against Iraq. The vote was 52-47 in the Senate.

"Our prayers and all of our support must be with the men and women in our armed forces," Reigle said in a prepared statement. "Our task must be to bring this matter to conclusion as quickly as possible doing all we can to protect our U.S. forces and innocent civilians in the Beer-Ta-Kout clerk Tony Cope, sitting spellbound before unfolding television news at the drive-in liquour store on North River Street, described sensations of surprise followed by growing concern for his sister and nephews in Saudi Arabia.

His sister, Rhonda Cope, 29, of Ypsilanti, is stationed with her army unit in Saudi Arabia.

"To be honest with you, it's scary," Cope said. "A lot of thoughts went through my mind . . . I thought about all the American people, my family members and friends. It's going to be hard."

Cope said he supported the soldiers 100 percent, and "I hope that all get home safely."

Pentagon However, one source said official pronouncements on American casualties were "overly optimistic."

Bush said no ground assault was launched immediately.

The air offensive, aimed at troops and other strategic sites in both Iraq and Kuwait, included U.S. Air Force planes, British Tornado fighter-bombers, 150 Saudi Arabian F-15s and Tornados, and aircraft of Kuwait's exiled military, allied officials said.

There was no early word from Iraq on damage and casualties. Nor was there any immediate sign of an Iraqi missile attack on Israel, as Baghdad had threatened.

Rumors flew through the Persian Gulf that Iraq launched Scud missiles against Saudi Arabia, but Cheney called those reports false. An Israeli military official said allied warplanes struck Scud missile launch sites in western Iraq.

One Saudi official, who spoke on condition that he not be named, said Iraqi artillery had hit a small Saudi oil refinery about five miles from the Kuwaiti border on the gulf coast. The refinery was a minor one,

"All reasonable efforts" to resolve the Persian Gulf by diplomacy and economic sanctions had failed and Saddam "met every overture of peace with contempt," he said somberly. "The world could wait no longer."

Bush said U.S. forces would destroy Iraq's nuclear potential and chemical warfare facilities.

Less than three hours after the U.S. jets were launched, reporters in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, a staging base for the U.S. force, said air raid sirens sounded an alert of a possible Iraqi missile attack. The "allclear" later sounded with no word of an attack.

The American warplanes in the first wave took off in pairs, disappearing in red dots that winked out as they gained altitude. The aircraft were heavily loaded with bombs and underwing fuel tanks for the long trip north - 200 miles to Kuwait, 600 to Baghdad.

"We've been waiting here for five months now. Now we finally got to do what we were sent here to do," Col. Davies

In Washington, a senior military official said the initial U.S. attack also included "a wave of cruise missiles," possibly from U.S. battleships in the gulf. The apparently launched to force Iraqi anti-aircraft defenses to turn on their radars and be spotted and destroyed by the attackers.

A wise move

The Augusta Township Board of Trustees has wisely agreed to rewrite township bylaws to prohibit the storage or consumption of alcohol on township property.

The move came in the wake of a report that volunteer firefighters drank beer at a Christmas party at the department.

Trustees discovered they had no clear authority to prohibit such activities, so they decided to rewrite their bylaws to give them that power.

There is no evidence that members of the volunteer fire department drank to excess or in any way were involved in activities that might have endangered any-drinking at the party so that emergency calls could be answered.

The party, said Roe, has been an annual event for the 12 years he has been with the Augusta Township Fire Department.

Changing the bylaws to prohibit alcohol makes sense. The action is a safeguard against abuses or even the perception that abuses have occurred that could cause serious legal problems for the department and the township.

But that is as far as it should go, unless someone can come forward with some evidence that Chief Roe presided over a party at which he allowed his department to get drunk.

Having or attending a party at which alcohol is consumed does not necessarily mean anyone was Bush may be overestimating themenace of Saddam Hussein. Bush certainly has overestimated Gorbachev, the most overrated man of the 20th century, and Bush is not alone. The Economist says: "The courage it took to set Eastern Europe free seems to have deserted him." Note the small word "set." It carries a huge and dangerous misreading of history.

Gorbachev no more "set free" Eastern Europe than the United States 'gave" full rights to its black citizens. Blacks fought and forced the issue; Eastern Europe's people stood up and gave Gorbachev, by then a mendicant on the West's doorstep, no real choice.

Many months ago, Gorbachev made the characteristically grand - and empty — promise that within 500 days he would do what he has done nothing much about for six years. He would radically reform institutional impediments to freedom. Yet still he holds back. Why?

For the same reason he denounces elements and speaks of preserving the Soviet Union's "socialist choice." That choice was made 73 years ago by the entity that Gorbachev still heads, the Communist Party.

A Czech official says: Place your hand on a globe at San Francisco. Move your hand eastward around most of the Northern Hemisphere, to Vladivostok on the Pacific shore of the Soviet Union. Supporting soldiers, but not the war

A few months ago, I wrote to "any soldier" in the Persian Gulf. I received a reply and have been corresponding with my soldier ever since.

From the beginning, my new friend was concerned about whether he and his fellow soldiers would have the support of the folks at home.

He is prepared to do anything his country asks of him but he doesn't want to be spurned for his efforts as those who came back from Vietnam so often were. I assured him of the backing of the American people, including myself, and that is certainly true as

In fact, this was my motivation for writing to someone in the Persian Gulf in the first place. As someone who was married to a Vietnam veteran, I believe wholeheartedly that the men and women who fight for America should be able to count absolutely on the support of the people at home.

But how exactly do you show your support for the soldiers while disagreeing with the policies of the government that put them where they are? In the long years since Vietnam, that tightrope has not become any easier to walk. So far, I have handled the situation with my soldier by sliding over it. We? Just who is this "we" anyway? The same people whose kids are on the front line of every war, that's who.

I would not have been opposed to our sending our fair share of troops and material to join a cooperative international effort to oust Hussein. Instead, we have been suckered into allowing the world to use us as a front, both militarily and economically - our kids, our money.

I haven't told my soldier any of this. It is precisely because of him and other soldiers like him that I don't agree with our Middle East policy. That is a difficult fence to straddle but nevertheless, those of us who support the soldiers and oppose the war must

Air strike fills sky with color

By The Associated Press

Explosions and colorful bands of anti-aircraft artillery signaled the beginning of the air attack before dawn Thursday on Baghdad, described by one U.S. reporter in the Iraqi capital as "the center of hell."

About two hours after the first Iraqi anti-aircraft fire, Baghdad Radio reported "wave after wave" of warplanes moving over the city of about 4 million residents.

Most of the initial damage was apparently on the outskirts of the city, according to American TV network reporters in Baghdad. Many of the foreign journalists observed the attack from the Al Rashid Hotel in downtown Baghdad. Air raid sirens wailed. The streets were nearly deserted. The air attacks were separated by periods of calm. Some lights were turned on around the city, but most areas remained in darkness.

During the first hours of the attack, some correspondents reported fires in the distance. CNN's John Holliman said an oil refinery was apparently hit and a wave of heat swept over the hotel.

The initial anti-aircraft barrage filled the sky with tracers looking like "fireworks on the Fourth of July multiplied by 100," ABC correspondent Gary Shepard said.

Holliman described it as "some beautiful tracer fire. There are red blasts, there are green blasts."

"This feels like we're in the center of hell," said CNN's Bernard Shaw.

A Baghdad resident who telephoned a friend in Amman, Jordan, early Thursday said the planes hit the area around the hotel. Hussein Murad, a Jordanian businessman who received the call, quoted the Baghdad resident as saying air raid sirens sounded "much later" after the first bombs.

The raiding planes appeared to be flying very high and could not be seen, the caller added. The caller described the sky over Baghdad as "black smoke."

No videotape of the air strike on Baghdad was immediately available, and there were no injuries reported to the U.S. network crews in Baghdad.

The predictions were right. U.S. officials here announced that air raids on Iraq started before dawn Thursday, and President Bush said in Washington that "the liberation Kuwait" had started.

Television reporters reported from Baghdad that bombs were falling in and around the Iraqi capital.

On Wednesday, as ground accelerated, preparations Capt. Dana Patterson of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, commented, "There's no hurry" - knowing what B-52 bombers can do to Iraqi fortifications in the sand."

With a severe enough pounding during 'maddest minute" and the hours and days to follow, commanders are confident they can send in troops to speedily finish the job.

Start of war brings promises of support

By MICHAEL HIRSH Associated Press

The outbreak of war in the Persian Gulf brought promises of support for the United States from its allies, prayers for peace and angry calls for anti-war demonstrations. Trading on world markets was fast-paced but not panicky.

Several governments convened crisis Cabinet meetings.

The feeling of saddened resignation expressed by United Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who had engaged in a frenzied 11th hour effort to avert war, reflected the feelings of many. "After all my efforts, after all the efforts of so many countries, so many different personalities, how can I tell you, dear friends, that we are now facing a war?" he said.

Pope John Paul II, immediately informed of the start of the war, began to pray, the Italian News Agency AGI reported.

Peace activists in several countries expressed anger and planned anti-war protests later

In Tokyo, prices on the stock market actually jumped 433.12 points to 22,875.82 as major investors bought heavily after months of waiting for the gulf war to begin. Early gains by the U.S. dollar, a safe haven in times of war, were quickly erased in volatile trading. Oil prices were up only slightly.

"The market reacted in expectation that the gulf war will not last long because of the predominance of military power of the U.S.-led multinational forces," said Nobuyuki Nishiguchi, a stock analyst with Daiwa Se-

In the Middle East itself, Kuwaiti exiles in Bahrain rushed out of their apartments in excitement at the news.

Israel's military command ordered its citizens to stay indoors and prepare their gas mask kits but there were no immediate signs of a threatened Iraqi attack.

The bidding: West North East South 1 NT 2 NT Pass Pass 3 NT Opening lead — ten of hearts.

The bidding by the opponents frequently determines declarer's course of play. Consider this deal, which illustrates how East's one spade overcall can vitally affect the outcome. West led a heart, East taking the king and returning the jack. Declarer won with the queen and play a third heart, establishing West's suit. Sooner or later declarer would have to lead a diamond and, whenever he did, West would take the ace and sink the contract with his remaining hearts.

But now let's suppose South leads diamonds at once, instead of spades. In that case, he makes the contract whatever the defenders do. If West refuses the first diamond, South plays another one.

As a result, West's hearts drop out of the picture. If he takes the ace, he has no entry for his hearts; if he refuses the ace a second time, South abandons the suit and leads spades to wrap up the contract.

Obviously, the crux of the hand lies in choosing the right suit to attack, but which suit South should play first is certainly not a tossup. In making his choice, South goes back to the bidding for guidance.

It is far more logical to assume that East's spade bid was based on a suit headed by the ace than one headed by the nine. It follows that if West has an ace, it is more likely to be in diamonds than spades, and South and had to decide which suit to play therefore shapes his play so as to deprive West of his potential entry Let's suppose he had led a spade card. In effect, the bidding draws a to force out the ace. East would win road map to the winning line of play.

Belleville state office may stay open

By EMILY CHURCH Press Staff Writer

VAN BUREN TWP. - A unexpected $250,000 fund transfer proposal from the Department of Management and Budget Monday may keep the Belleville Secretary of State's branch office open.

The draft transfer faces the state legislature Jan. 22.

Should it pass, the branch remains open, said Denise Yockey, a spokeswoman for the

"Our statement at this point is that were are cautiously optimistic," Yockey said.

The Belleville branch was one of 22 across the state which slated to close under original plans to trim the Department of State's budget by $1.65 million.

"We might be able to keep open some or all of the 22 branches," Yockey said.

The department's general budget is $18.7 million. Closing the branches would save an estimated $230,000.

"I'm particularly tickled pink right now, but also feeling guarded," said Cynthia Talaga, a clerk at the Belleville branch. "I'll breathe easier after March

If the legislature does not act on the draft changes, the department will impose the cuts it announced in December. Employees will know by March 4 if they will be transferred to another branch, Talaga said.

To area officials, it appeared that the Department of State's plans to shut the branch down succumbed to community pressure.

"Maybe all pressure our community has been doing is helping keep some of these things (the Belleville branch and Beyer Hospital) here," said Marvin Banotai, Sumpter Township Supervisor.

Township trustees passed a resolution last week condemning the proposed closing, as did the Belleville City Council and the Van Buren Board of Trust-

"I wouldn't say the Department of State gave into pressure," Yockey said. "It has been our goal from 'Day One', when we started hearing from com-munites saying 'Please don't close our branch,' ... to keep them open."

"I think more than anything common sense along with a little community pressure did it," Belleville's Mayor Glenn Silvenis said.

"It's what we hoped for," said Van Buren Supervisor David Jacokes. The branch "certainly provides a valuable service to the area. I had to use the Romulus office, and I was less than pleased with the location and the service." That the smaller Romulus branch office was not included with the 22 others slated to close raised some eyebrows.

Envotech land changes surprise officials

By MARK HUGGER Press Staff Writer

AUGUSTA TWP. -Washtenaw County issued Envotech Management Service a soil erosion control permit Tuesday required by state statute for land improvements Envotech is making at the site of a proposed hazardous landfill and incinerator, a county employee said.

Township officials, sur-prised Wednesday when told the permit was issued, said they were disappointed the county had acted without advising them.

Envotech's application to the County Environmental Health Department requested the permit for "minor grading and earthwork to remove unsuitable soils and improve drainage for future site development.

The permit was issued for 36 acres on the southwest and southeast corners of Arkona and Gooding roads.

An Envotech press release on Wednesday said work would be finished by March. The company is preparing a building application for the landfill and incinerator.

Augusta Township Envi-ronmental Coordinator Jim Burger said he was surprised the county acted without notifying the township. He was not surprised, however, at how little information Envotech has provided the township on their plans.

"It's typical of the relationship that has developed," he said. "It's typical of Envotech's disregard for the people of this area.'

Envotech spokesman David Jablonski said Wednesday's press release was to inform people near the site about the work taking place. Some heavy equipment is used to grade access routes and the company didn't want to alarm neighbors, he said. The access routes are driveways used to move soil at the site, George Schutte, Envotech Program Liaison said. Though soil will be imported to the site, none will be removed, Jablonski said.

Township Trustee Hans Posselt said he was concerned about wetlands at the site because the county's wetlands maps were out-of-date. An offer to use Augusta's more recent wetland maps was turned down by the county, he said.

He said the township would monitor the work Envotech did at the site. If the company violated a township ordinance, like the Wetlands or Private Road ordinances, the permit could be revoked, Posselt said.

Envotech notified the township by phone that they planned to start erosion and maintenance work in the area, Burger said.

The township assumed Envotech planned to work on the Arkona Road Landfill, Burger said, which is just west of the proposed landfill and incinerator site. The Arkona Landfill is owned by Augusta Development Corporation, an Envotech sister company. The township is suing ADC to force the company to clean up the site.

Hurons stay unbeaten in MAC, 63-61

MT. PLEASANT — Eastern Michigan's women's basketball team had a path to the Mid-American Conference lead here Wednesday night.

The only problem was that the team already there was blocking it.

And Central Michigan wasn't about to get out of the way, pulling away over the final 13 minutes for a 76-60 win over the Hurons in CMU's Rose Are-

The victory left the Chippewas, 12-2 for the season, atop the MAC at 4-0. EMU, meanwhile, fell to 7-7 and 3-2.

About the only thing the Hurons did have going for them was a solid defensive effort which kept the game close until Nissen started a decisive second-half run.

Nissen, whose putback had given CMU a 33-29 lead at the halftime horn, put in a tough baseline jumper as the shot clock was running out with 13:46 to play.

Wings call up Potvin from Adirondack

"DETROIT — The Detroit Red Wings promoted right wing Marc Potvin from their American Hockey League affiliate at Glens Falls, N.Y., coach and general manager Bryan Murray said Wednesday.

Potvin, 23, played in 45 games for Adirondack this season, totaling five goals, 10 assists and 250 penalty minutes. He played briefly with Adirondack at the end of the 1989-90 season after finishing his collegiate career at Bowling Green State University. In four seasons and 174 games with the Ohio school Potvin had 62 goals, 65 assists and 189 penalty minutes.

Detroit drafted Potvin in the ninth round of the 1986 NHI entry draft. He is a second cousin to Denis Potvin, a former All-Star defenseman with the New York Islanders.

Foreman becomes a father again

HUMBLE, Texas - George Foreman, who will be 43 when he fights to regain the heavyweight title he held 18 years ago became a father for the ninth time Wednesday.

Foreman's wife, Joan, gave birth at Northeast Memorial Hospital to a son weighing in at 8 pounds, 13 ounces.

The latest arrival was named George V. The fighter's other three sons also are named George.

Pappa Foreman, who is George I, fights Evander Holyfield for the title April 19 at Trump Plaza in Atlantic City.

Pascual Perez ordered to pay child support

SANTIAGO, Dominican Republic - A judge has ordered New York Yankees pitcher Pascual Perez to pay child support to a woman who claims he is the father of her son.

Judge Jacqueline Perez handed down the order this week in settlement of a paternity suit brought last year by Martha Arias on behalf of her 15-month-old son, Carlos Manuel. The judge ordered Perez to pay Arias $275 a month retroactive to last March and until the boy reaches adulthood. Perez also received a two-year suspended sentence for failing to make the monthly payments.

Fittipaldi sued over boating accident

MIAMI — World-class race car driver Emerson Fittipaldi is being sued in the aftermath of a boating accident that severely injured another boater.

Raul Egueras is asking for more than $500,000 in a negligence suit filed this week in Dade County civil court.

The suit claims Florida Marine Patrol officer Manuel Padilla spotted Fittipaldi speeding and, while turning his boat to chase him, collided with the 19-foot boat in which Eguaras was riding. Fittipaldi, a two-time Formula One champion and Indianap olis 500 winner, was not available for comment Wednesday.

Oilers want Fuhr's suspension lifted

EDMONTON, Alberta — The Edmonton Oilers have asked NHL president John Zeigler to lift goaltender Grant Fuhr's one-year suspension for cocaine use.

When Ziegler suspended Fuhr in September, he said the Oilers could apply to have him reinstated Feb. 18.

"It's time to let the man play," Oiler coach John Muckler said

Tuesday in New York, where the Oilers were playing the New York Rangers.

Leafs send lafrate to Washington

TORONTO - The Toronto Maple Leafs continued their game of muscial playyers on Wednesday, sending unhappy defenseman Al Iafrate to V'ashington for center Peter Zezel and defenseman Bob Rouse.

The Detroit-native Infrate had been at odds the defensive philosophy installed by coach Tom Watt and haunted by what he called "a whisper campaign" in the dressing room regarding his personal problems.

Zezel and Rouse will become the 39th and 40th players to dress for a Maple Leafs' game this season. The deal was the seventh made by Toronto GM Floyd Smith since Nov. 9.

There's been speculation all season of a rift in the Leafs' dressing room and two of the players mentioned prominently were Iafrate and right wing Gary Leeman. Among Iafrate's problems during his time in Toronto were the breakup of his marriage and a paternity suit filed in St. Louis. Leeman now is dating Iafrate's ex-wife. Bo doubtful for Sunday's title game

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. — Bo Jackson probably won't play in Sunday's AFC Championship game because of his injured left

Jackson was injured when tackled by Kevin Walker at the end of a 34-yard run on the second play of the third quarter in last Sunday's 20-10 Raiders victory over the Cincinnati Bengals in a second-round playoff game.

Jackson said afterwards that he intended to play against the Buffalo Bills Sunday, but underwent a magnetic resonance imaging test on Monday and hasn't commented since that time.

Judge won't consider WBC suit

NEWARK, N.J. - A federal judge refused to consider a lawsuit over the World Boxing Council heavyweight title Wednesday and bumped the case back to state court, where a judge has already ordered arbitration.

WBC attorney Gabriel Penagaricano said the council would seek speedy arbitration of its effort to strip heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield of his title for not fighting former champ Mike Tyson.

Tyson and the WBC contend Holyfield's first defense of his title should be against Tyson, but boxing's two other major ranking organizations have sanctioned a bout set for April 19 in Atlantic City against former champ George Foreman.

Lansford has arthroscopic surgery

OAKLAND, Calif. - Oakland A's third baseman Carney Lansford underwent exploratory arthroscopic surgery Wednesday on his left knee, which he injured in a New Year's Eve snowmobile accident.

A magnetic resonance imaging test showed probable damage to the medial collateral and anterior cruciate ligaments, but the results of Wednesday's surgery were not immediately available, team spokesman Jay Alves said.

Earlier examinations revealed no cartilage damage or fractures, but team orthopedist Dr. Rick Bost operated on Lansford at Children's Hospital in San Francisco to determine the extent of damage to the ligaments.

Notre Dame's Ellis ruled ineligible

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — LaPhonso Ellis, Notre Dame's leading scorer and rebounder, is academically ineligible and will miss the rest of the season.

Even with Ellis, Notre Dame was suffering its worst start in two decades under coach Digger Phelps. The Irish (6-9) had dropped seven straight, but may have been on the rebound with consecutive victories over Miami and West Virginia. Ellis was averaging 16.4 points and 10.5 rebounds.

Ellis, an accounting major, passed all his courses but failed to maintain the 2.0 grade average Notre Dame requires for athletes to compete, Phelps said. The loss of Ellis will force the Irish to regroup before playing a difficult series of home games the next three weeks, including No. 14 Virginia, No. 12 Duke, and No. 8 Syracuse.

Engler said he intends to follow up on his campaign promises and make permanent cuts in taxes and the state budget, and reduce the size of government and improve its efficiency.

"The approach is to signal that it isn't going to be and simply can't be business as usual any more," he said, adding the budget problem presents an opportunity for him to change thinking in state government.

"It's one that challenges evthink differently about prob-lems, to approach some of the status quo that we've known for many years and in some cases been very comfortable with and adjust our thinking and adjust our directions."

"We've made some tough choices. If our choice is not educating children or continuing these programs, we've opted for education," he said.

Last month, the Legislature agreed to cut most departments — sparing the public school budgets — by 9.2 percent to save about $536 million. Engler formally gave the House and Senate appropriations committees on Wednesday his executive order to cut another $475 million and balance this year's budget.

Both panels must approve it within the next 10 days for it to said on the final day of public hearings that began in mid-November. The committee is exploring the activities of five senators on behalf of Charles Keating, one-time owner of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan.

The committee on Jan. 30 will begin deliberations on what, if any, action against each senator to recommend to the full Senate, chairman Howell Heflin, D-Ala., said. Punishment could range from a mild reprimand to expulsion.

Attorneys for each senator made final statements to the six-member committee. Its special counsel, Robert Bennett, followed with a brief but fiery rebuttal, accusing some of the five senators of hiding behind the "everybody does it" defense.

"If everybody does do what was done here, then that means this place doesn't have an infection that can be cured. It means that you're terminal," Bennett said. "Everybody does not do it, and you know it."

On Tuesday, Bennett bluntly questioned Riegle's credibility in a wrapup statement, telling the committee, "If you were to determine that Senator Riegle was dishonest with you, I think this committee has to act on it."

But Riegle and his attorney, Thomas Green, voiced confidence that they had demonstrated Riegle testified truthfully, while admitting his memory was fuzzy on many details of his dealings with Keating and associates.

"As the witnesses have come in and we have gone through them one by one, I think the case has evaporated," Riegle told reporters.

Earlier, he sat quietly as Green went on the attack. He said Bennett's presentation of the previous day reminded him of the stew he and friends would prepare on camping trips as youths. The stew tasted very good or very bad, he said, depending on what went into the mixture.

Bennett, Green said, presented Riegle's conduct in the worst possible light but "didn't throw everything in the pot."

For example, Bennetti failed to note there was no. evidence Riegle did or said anything improper during any April 9, 1987, meeting of the five senators and four federal, banking regulators, Green!

That meeting, and another, one a week earlier with the nation's top banking regula tor, are a focal point of the investigation into whether the senators improperly sought lenient treatment of Keating's thrift while he and supporters were raising a combined $1.3 million for their campaigns and causes.

Panel to review state's adoption laws panel plans to take a thorough look at the adoption laws. Michigan's adoption laws and try to make the process easier for everyone, lawmakers said Wednesday.

Adopting a child and even giving up a child for adoption involves so much red tape that parents sometimes go to other states where it's much simpler, said Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods.

Gubow will chair the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Adoption, announced Wednesday by Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, chairman of the House Judiciary

Gubow said he is going into the hearings with an open mind. But he hopes to address serious questions such as to what extent records should be open to adopted children and birth parents, and how to provide incentives to couples to adopt children who have special needs.

"It will be the goal of this subcommittee to amend the adoption code to remove bureaucratic obstacles that are preventing potential parents from adopting a child and making it easier for birth parents to choose adoption." Gubow said.

LANSING (AP) - A new legislative recommendations later this year to change ernment should supervise adoptions and whether law should address the issue of racial differences between children and their prospective adoptive parents.

Juries must consider suffering, court told

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Supreme Court could bolster public confidence in justice by allowing jurors weighing the death penalty to consider the victims' good character or their families' grief, a prosecutor argued Wednesday.

"This case is about fair and evenhanded justice for the accuser," Lorain County, Ohio, prosecutor Jonathan Rosenbaum said, urging the court to overturn its 1987 decision barring "victim impact" evidence from juries choosing life or death for convicted murderers.

Rosenbaum said the 1987 ruling in Booth vs. Maryland unfairly "precludes jurors from knowing the actual harm caused."

"The public may lose faith in our system of justice. ... We've taken retribution out of sentencing," Rosenbaum

But Joann Bour-Stokes, a Columbus, Ohio, lawyer representing a convicted killer said the 1987 case and a 1989 sequel "were properly decided and should remain in force."

She said the two rulings were necessary to prevent "improper opinion testimony" from swaying jurors in capital punishment cases.

The court's decision is expected by July.

Ediberto Huertas was convicted of fatally stabbing Ralph Harris Jr. in Lorain, Ohio, on June 7, 1986.

A jury sentenced him to death after hearing evidence from Harris' mother and father about their son's churchgoing and how devastating the murder had been on the victim's young son.

In its 1987 ruling, the court split 5-4 in ruling that such victim impact statements "can serve no other purpose than to inflame the jury and divert it from deciding the case on the relevant evidence concerning the crime and the defendant."

The court again split 5-4 in 1989 when it ruled that sentencing juries in capital cases generally may not be told about a victim's characteristics or standing in the community.

But of the dissenters in the 1989 case, only Justice Antonin Scalia explicitly called for a reversal of Booth vs. Maryland. Justice Byron White, a dissenter in the 1987 decision, hinted in the 1989 ruling that he some day might vote to reverse.

The author of the court's 1989 ruling was Justice William Brennan, who has since retired and been replaced by Justice David Sout-

During Wednesday's argument, prosecutor Rosenbaum conceded that the testimony of Harris' father is not the kind of "reliable and objective evidence of impact" that jurors should be allowed to

But he forcefully decried the "unfairness" of allowing a defendant's family to testify at a sentencing trial about how an execution would affect their lives while barring a victim's family from testifying about the crime's impact on their lives.

"This one-sided thing" needs to be balanced, Rosenbaum said.

His most serious challenge came from Justice John Paul Stevens, who with a touch of irony in his voice noted that prosecutors also face other "one-sided burdens."

They have identified 40 with the artery narrowing that can set them up for a stroke, Adams said.

Children with sickle cell disease who suffer strokes are commonly treated with blood transfusions every three to five weeks, Adams said.

If doctors can determine which children are going to have strokes, the treatment might prevent many of those strokes, Adams said.

Of the patients he and his colleagues have been following, seven have had strokes. All but one of the children who had strokes had been previously identified by the ultrasound device as being at special risk.

The cause of the strokes in children is not known, Adams said. The children develop a narrowing of the arteries that supply blood to the brain. But the narrowing is different from the kind of narrowing of arteries that leads to heart attacks.

Identity U.S.A. is an offshoot of four similar clothing stores in Manchester.

Fisher said he opened the Ypsilanti store because Stanley wanted to expand his business and was attracted to the Detroit area because of similarities between Manchester and Detroit.

One similarity is that both are northern industrial cities, Fisher said. Another similarity is that Manchester is becoming the "Motown" of England, he said.

The store sells T-shirts with many of those bands' logos. Fisher also sells Africa Pride Tshirts, which reflect the strength of the anti-apartheid movement in Manchester, Fisher said.

Another T-shirt design is "Cabbaged." The shirt has a picture of a cabbage above the word "cabbaged." Fisher said this expresses the feeling that "Some days you just don't feel well."

The T-shirts cost between $12 - $18.

Fisher said he hopes to begin selling "Doctor Martin" shoes in the spring. Lithuanians bury their dead

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of people bid a tearful farewell in the silenced Lithuanian Wednesday to nine countrymen turned martyrs by their deaths at the hands of Soviet soldiers.

In the neighboring republic of Latvia, Soviet forces shot and killed one man as he drove across a bridge in Riga, the capital.

Latvia and the third Baltic republic, Estonia, also are pressing for restoration of their independence, but they have not gone as far as Lithuania. The three republics were annexed by the Soviet Union at the start of World War II.

In Moscow, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev cited rising tensions in urging the legislature to take control of the national media. He was particularly unhappy about a critical press account of Sunday's military assault on Lithuania's broadcast center, which left 14 people dead.

A crowd police estimated to be as large as 1 million - almost twice the population of Vilnius jammed the city's Roman Catholic cathedral, a square surrounding it and the funeral route that wound through narrow streets to a hilltop cemetery.

A tenth person was being buried in Kaunas, the republic's second city. Four others were being buried separately.

In a eulogy, Russian Orthodox clergyman Father Khrisostom acknowledged that ethnic Russians had been involved in the killings and apologized.

A Lithuanian woman, holding the portrait of a man killed by Soviet troops, walks in front of a flag-draped casket carried by relatives Wednesday in the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius.

"This is a shame for all of us," he said. "Believe me, Lithuanians, we Russians are with you."

Lithuania declared independence last March, and has been locked in a tense war of nerves with Gorbachev ever since. Sunday's deaths were the first of the Men listening outside the Vilnius cathedral doffed their fur hats during the two-hour service despite the chill wind, and many people held candles, illuminating the overcast northern day.

"They are real heroes," said Vincus Gursky, a 59-year-old schoolteacher who held a candle outside the cathedral. "What else would you call someone who bravely sticks his chest out in front of a tank?"

In Latvia, officials said a 39year-old man was shot in the head by so-called "black berets," under control of the Soviet Interior Ministry. He was taken to the First Riga Hospital, and died there, Dr. Juris Lange said.

The man, identified as Roberts Murnieks, was driving on a bridge leading to the northern suburb of Vecmilgravis, where Soviet military bases are located, officials said.

Black berets have been shooting out the tires of heavy vehicles parked on the bridge to act as barricades, but it was not clear whether Murnieks was killed by accident. No other information was available.

In another incident, black berets stopped a van, forced the occupants onto the pavement and set fire to the vehicle, said Sakari Nupponen, a Finnish journalist driving by at the time.

Latvian President Anatolijs Gorbunovs told a news conference on Wednesday he would consider forming a coalition government with opponents if they dropped demands that Latvia suspend its independence declaration.

Tallinn, the capital of Estonia, remained quiet. But police and home guards protected the parliament building. Fire hoses were ready for use against attackers, and 1,000 gas masks were in boxes inside.

Traffic was halted in much of Vilnius for the funeral cortege. Schools were closed for the third straight day. Many offices and stores also were closed.

Your Horoscope

Tomorrow's forecast

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You receive unexpected good news. Your relationship with a co-worker fluctuates. Putting in longer hours fattens your paycheck, but may jeopardize domestic harmony. Strike a better balance.

comments TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A close relationship intensifies; two minds think as one. You sense what will happen next. MOOSE MILLER Now is the time to make important connections. Do not take romantic partner for granted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Self-reliance gives you the edge. rival A meaningful gesture helps you win back a friend. Heed your 38 Guitarist's instincts tonight. Bowing out of a social event could be a drawbacks. Bow to the feelings of an authority figure. Keep a low profile and protect your reputation. A romantic encounter is best postponed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Meetings with the top brass could lead to progress. Good fortune lies in new business undertakings, especially those involving overseas clients. A personal relationship is tested.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): During an enlightening discussion, you express yourself well. Do not be disturbed if someone disagrees with your conclusions. Time will prove you right! Donate to charity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Big things are developing on the work front. Be alert for a chance to join forces with someone powerful. Real estate is a sound investment now. Greater give-and-take will improve romance. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your presence is in great demand today. A wish comes true, thanks to close friends or sympathetic higher-ups. A personal relationship will benefit from your being more nurturing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A snazzy new outfit may be what you need today. Happily, you enter a period of increased prosperity! Do not be afraid to take some risks. A pet project gets the green light. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Success will come quicker if you are not too aggressive. Let others show their hands first. Although you may not realize it, there is much at stake. Play Attough you may not realize it, there is much at stake. Play your cards close to your vest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get on the inside track by talking with VIPs. A savvy question will help you score important points. Conduct your own research and you will know when to make your move. Socialize tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not get left out of the shuffle at work. Speak up if you want something! A very talented individual wants to be on your team. Welcome this person with open arms.

TODAY'S CHILDREN show signs of being "nesters" at a tender age. Although these youngsters have good minds, they sometimes have difficulty expressing themselves verbally. Group activities like scouting and sports will satisfy their need for peer approval and social acceptance. Let these affectionate Capricorns know how proud you are of their efforts Ambitious and hardworking, they can find success in almost any field. Many of them will choose to launch their own businesses.
